Cardin's Future

Editor:

I'm ecstatic to hear about the expansion of the Cardin School ("Cardin School Breaking Ground," Aug. 12). My two young children, presently at Krieger Schechter Middle School, will begin their education at Cardin in 2013 and in 2015. They are very excited about the building of the new athletic field and they cannot wait until it's finished.

It is great to see that Cardin is here to stay and remain a viable choice as one of the best Jewish independent day schools in our area. As a parent of two former students, I am thrilled to see the commitment of this community to a school that offers a unique Jewish experience and a superb academic challenge. The Cardin School is not just another Jewish day school. It offers a forum for meaningful and stimulating discussions related to Jewish and secular issues facing our nation and world. It encourages and expects serious ethical introspection from students who are on a journey to find their own identity within the Jewish movement. Cardin transforms our ambivalent Jewish kids into confident and proud young Jews ready to take on any challenge. I am proud to be a Cardin parent.
